Vital Christianity for Today REV. ROBERT W. SEARLE, D. D.

Democracy is a principle of human association in which each individual involved is recognized as possessing inalienable rights and in which ultimate authority is equally distributed among those as-sociated. The majority opinion therefore rules decision, but no de-

The Count today told the Chiago Council of Foreign Relations that the Fascist army is too well disciplined to take the lead in any nsurrection. And he claims that the civilian population lacks the arms and facilities to stage a sucessful revolt.

The 72-year-old Italian is critical of Allied propaganda being beamed to his country. In effect, he believes, the Allies are telling Italians to throw out Mussolini and then select a "nice Fascist" as his successor. In reality, the Count said, Italians want nothing more to do with any Fascists.

But it is very obvious from what has been done up-to-date that our legislators have given very little hought or attention to the war that is going on.
Out of the first 42 bills passed by both houses and sent to the governor, only one pertained to the war. And that was a bill providing that the state licenses of professional men should not expire during the war period. Many other bills pertaining to the war effort have been dropped into the hopper, of course, and undoubtedly will be passed before the March 8 deadline

But the point is that the legislators have shoved aside these bills to take up measures in which they were personally interested.

A good example of this lack of interest in wartime legislation was shown by the way the house ways and means committee "sat" for weeks on the essential civilian defense bill.

And it took the Republican state chairman, Ralph Gates, in person to force the Republican members of the ways and means committee to get the bill out on the floor of the house with sufficient appropriations to operate a civilian deense program.

Supports Plan for Soldiers Help

Washington, Feb. 26. - "The armed forces have landed and the farm situation is well in hand." Such communiques may roll in from the agricultural front during the coming season if a bill now before Congress goes through. The bill would enable farmers to call on servicemen for help if they should find it impossible to get assistance elsewhere in planting, cultivating or harvesting their crops.

A Congress as all-out to help agriculture as this one is will doubtless pass the measure. And if it's touched up here and there, the Commander - in - Chief — Mr. Roosevelt-will not object to using soldiers in agriculuture. Congressman Fulmer says the president has approved the principle of the Farmers—to describe the high-lights of the plan—would call for help at the nearest military establishment. If they could show that the army or navy was their last hope, a detail of doughboys or sail-ors would be called out of training and hustled into the emergency area. No detail could spend over one day at farm work. If the work couldn't be cleaned up in a day, another detail would be sent out from camp the following day.

If the plan is adopted, farmers will have to pay the government for the help they get from soldiers or sailors. They will have to pay the going wage rate in their com munity for each man.

No effort would be made by military commanders to pick ou skilled hands for the farm details But this doesn't disturb Congress man Fulmer, who says: "Anybody can pick apples or cotton or sweet Postpone Cotton

The Golden Text is: "Jesus Christ the same yesterday, and to day, and for ever" (Hebrews 13:8).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "And it came to pass, that after three days they found him in the temple, sitting in the midst of the doctors, both hearing them, and asking them questions. And all that heard him were astonished at his understanding and answers. And when they saw him, they were amazed: and his mother said unto him, Son, why hast thou thus dealt with us? behold, thy father and I have sought thee sorrowing. And he said unto them, How is it that ye sought me? wist ye not that I must be about my Father's business" (Luke 2:46-49)?

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following research from the cotton fields in the area. The original War Department or der stated that the troops would be used immediately. But it is understood that no army units had been released to work in the fields prior to tonight's postponement.

Crop Planning Washington, Feb. 26. - Spring

FARMERS BEGIN

SEASON'S WORK

Uncertainties For

farming operations have started in the south and are moving northward as the season advances. This is the time when farmers must know where they stand in the business picture—whether the planting of this or that crop is going to ing of this or that crop is going to return a profit or a loss.

As it is, many farmers don't know for sure how to plan. That's because of uncertainties in Washington. Secretary of Agriculture Wickard's request for 100 million dollars to be paid out to farmers who produce high-risk war crops was voted down by a congressional committee. His request for the release of another 100 million bushels of government-held wheat for livestock feed doesn't seem to have much backing in congress.

These things are enough to discourage most any man, but Wickard intends to make a fight for his program. He went to bat before the House Agriculture Committee for incentive payments and the re-lease of feed wheat. He said these things must get the go-ahead sig-nal from congress while there still is time to plan spring operations. Instead of doling out incentive payments to producers of milk, peanuts, potatoes and other badly needed commodities, many congressmen would rather raise the prices of these commodities in the market place. Wickard repeated his earlier warnings that such a

He thinks no one would suffer greater hardships from inflation than the farmer. He believes there should be some upward adjustment of prices, but that this will be dangerous if done clear across the board.

Meanwhile, he is under pressure to lift all triple-A marketing quotas on staple crops. Restrictions are now off on wheat, and southern congressmen want them lifted on cotton.

Rep. Teckemeyer admitted that The strange case of Madame LadyTHE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"One, two . . . Arms up! Stretch! Back, wa-a-a-y back! ... "

Sharp orders ring out on the parade grounds. It is 6 a.m. on a crisp morning in Maine, Virginia, Texas, Illinois, California. Five million of the world's finest men are starting the day right : . . getting fit to fight and out-fight the toughest of their Axis foes.

On the home front also in this second year of war, millions of civilians are keeping fit for their war work . . . guarding their health, getting plenty of sleep, eating nourishing energy foods! For never before has fitness for work been so important to ourselves, to each other, to America.

And never before has it been so important that the railroads keep fit, too-fit to fight the battle of supply and transportation that involves double the volume of passenger traffic, double the freight carried in 1939, when Hitler invaded Poland.

To do that job-to keep this primary supply line fit for its gigantic war task means' constant inspection of every available car and locomotive ::: speeding repairs so that no vital equipment shall remain idle : :: keeping 240,000 miles of track and roadbed in prime shape for greatly increased traffic and heavier loads.

On the New York Central alone there are now more than 55,000 people devoting all their time to maintenance and repair work! And that's equal to 22 full U. S. Army regiments!

* * * Because the railroads are doing a double job -they occasionally cannot supply just the accommodations you want . . . on a particular train . . . or at a certain time . . . or sometimes on even the day that is most convenient for you.

What America Can Do for China

Not since Winston Churchill addressed the United States Congress have its members and the American people been so persuasively reminded of the position selected for them by history as when Madame Chiang Kai-shek spoke in the House of Representatives. That position is not only one from which material strength for war must flow to all the fighting United Nations, but one of world leadership toward peace through international organization.

It was America's responsibility for postwar leadership that Mme. Chiang stressed How important it seems to others that Americans shall accept this responsibility was illustrated in her address, and not by

At this moment her country's needs are terribly urgent. But, while urging Americans not to underestimate Japan's power, she talked not too much of China's right to a larger share of democracy's arsenal, or of China's suffering. She spoke rather of China's hope that its long lone stand against aggression, and its continued endurance as an ill-equipped ally of the United States, would not be without a proportionate reward in the postwar world

And what is that reward? It was not for territory, better markets, or Chinese hegemony that Mme. Chiang pleaded. She asked chiefly for the continued American collaboration, as in war so in peace, to make tomorrow worth the sacrifices of today.

Mme. Chiang — the "madamissimo" as her American admirers might well call her -must have convinced many a parochialminded listener that "these Chinese speak our language." She is a Christian, and a graduate of Wellesley College. And more recent experience has impressed her with a fact no American should forget. She saw all races working together in American out-

This increased my belief and faith that devotion to common principles eliminates differences in race, and that identity of ideals is the strongest possible solvent of racial dissimilarities.

It is this identity of ideals that has brought so many of the United Nations together in war. The former British Ambasador to Washington, Lord Lothian, saw this as the ultimate determinating factor in Anglo-American relations, and his convictions have been borne out. The basis of victory in the war and the peace is the continued recognition of common ideals, whereever found and in whatever language spoken, as the foundation of world order.

Mme. Chiang's speech was a refutation of the geo-politicians, who base their postwar concepts on material factors arising from the physical positions of peoples on the earth's surface. The mental, moral and spiritual positions that nations take for themselves are mort important. Mme Chiang would have Americans take a position that would make them neighbors and friends and benefactors of all mankind.

"China is eager to co-operate with you and other nation to lay . . . a lasting foundation for a sane and progressive world society," she said. When Mme. Chiang voiced her hope that "it is the resolve of this Congress to devote itself to the creation of the postwar world," she was speaking not only for her people but for millions of Americans. -Christian Science Advocate.

How We Cut Taxes in 1950

It was in 1950, not long after the close of the Second World War, writes the Chinese historian Hi Ho Hum, that one member of the American Congress was struck with the idea that it might be possible to reduce income taxes below their 1943 level. He did not propose anything so absurd as a return to 1938 income tax levels, but did go so far as to suggest that taxes might be reduced to 1941 levels.

This strange idea, the Chinese historian continues, actually gained several adherents. The Treasury, in alarm, went before the Ways and Means Committee to combat so reactionary a plan. By such a reduction, the Treasury pointed out, the married man without any dependents and with an income of $1,200 would gain only $29. The man with a $3,000 income, however, would gain $305; the man with a $5,000 income would gain $590; the man with a $10,000 income would gain $1,316; the man with a $100,000 income would gain $16,325. And the scoundrel with a $1,000,000 income (for there was one left) would gain $167,446. The Treasury was unable to understand how so preposterous an idea could have originated, or how any liberal could possibly be taken in by it. For it gave the biggest amounts precisely to the men who needed them least. It gave the least to precisely the men who needed the money most. What excuse, continued the Treasury, was there for throwing such windfalls into the laps of | $11,700.

the taxpayers? Did Congress actually propose that the Treasury should throw away the billions of dollars of assets owing to it: Did not Congress recognize that whenever the Treasury took less than a man's whole the ordinary mind, that it explains and interincome it was in effect making him a hand- prets itself best in human symbols. And it some gift of the income that it failed to is because Mme. Chiang Kai-Shek in her take? And as this was so irrefutably true, small and charming person is so large a symcontinued the Treasury (according to the Chinese historian), it was already a scandal yesterday brought home to us as nothing that the Treasury, even at the 1943 level, else could the great historic facts heer preswas giving the man with a $1,200 income ence here expresses. The First Lady of only $1,171 each year, while it was giving the man with a $1,000,000 income $100,000 her own sake; no figure on the world stage

Even though its logic was perfect, however, the Treasury was willing, in deference to the muddle into which popular thought with which we are proud to be allied. In her had got on the subject, to reduce taxes, and moving and graceful address she demonstratto reduce the rich man's tax by as much as ed not only how well she speaks our language the poor man's tax. It found that the poorest man taxed paid a tax of $1. Therefore China are like our own. To see Mme. Chinag, the Treasury was willing to consent to reducing the tax of each individual by $1. Even the man with the $1,000,000 income ing lit-rally, as she said to the American peowas told that his tax for the following year, ple, and taking their representatives by instead of being $900,000, would be $899,-999. Those lads have been used to plowing in a country where an eighty-acre farm is just a "patch," where a furrow less than half a mile long is nothing more than a practice run. Some of them have been heard to say that it's hardly worth a man's time to get out the tractor to plow a twentyacre field; it's less bother just to spade it up by hand some slack morning. Turn a lad of that persuasion loose in an English field and something has to give. It might be a stone wall or a fine old hedgerow; it might be tradition.—New York Times.

Senator Taft And Money

Senator Taft of Ohio is probably the one man in Washington whose ambition to accomplish something constructive in the war effort is entirely nonexistant.

Just now the eminent Ohio minus mark is fussing about what he calls flat money—$160

An aftermath of the Hoover administration was the preparation of greenbacks to that amount, to be used quickly if none of the other efforts of the Roosevelt administration. The money is exactly like any other except that it does not indicate a siver bar

Study of Air Freight

A realistic approach to an important new element of transportation, air cargo, may be expected as a result of the acceptance of a fund for research in this field by Wayne University. The study will be under the direction of Dr. Spencer A. Larson, associate professor of Marketing and also principal economist in the Wholesale and Retail Policy Section of the War Production Board. Under the "Evans Grant for Air Cargo Research," which has been founded by Colonel Edward S. Evans of Detroit, the university plans to go beyond mere statistical analysis of business and endeavor to calculate some of the changes with relation to transportation which will result from the impact of war on the people of the world and their buying habits.

There has been a good deal of overenthusiastic prediction about the flying freight cars of the future. Cost per tonmile obviously will not be entirely jettisoned because of the immense savings of time which can be made by the use of wings for cargo. In our time airplanes will not destroy the usefulness of railroad, motor truck and marine freight hauling. Undoubtedly, however, they will absorb a large percentage of many cargoes of goods which now go by slower methods of travel, and play an important part in speeding up the delivery of a long list of articles of commerce. The study at Wayne University can be useful in exploring realistic opportunities for the future—New York Times.

Tempest In Glossy Print

Before the war, beautifully printed magazines were sent free to business and editorial offices throughout America.

The contained cleverly presented propaganda about Germany, Italy and Japan. They were intended to present the Axis as countries primarily interested in business, not in conquest.

If we can judge by the amount of appeasement sentiment in this country prior to Pearl Harbor, they were very effective.

Now the United States, through the Office of War Information, is publishing a glossyprint magazine called Victory, to be used in propaganda abroad, especially in reoccupied regions and neutral countries.

But anti-Roosevelt Congressmen are objecting. They object to the cost—although obviously we can't impress anybody with a third-rate publishing job.

They object to praise of Roosevelt—although he is obviously one of our best talk-

Just Like Governor Schricker

When it went out over the wires early Tuesday morning that the State Hospital for the Insane near Evansville was on fire, Governor Schricker left Indianapolis at once for the scene and he remained there until plans had been completed to take care of the 1,180 unfortunate wards of the state.

Indiana has had some fine governors but none have given more to the job than has Governor Henry F. Schricker. He has been on the job every minute since he took the oath of office. An attempt has been made at every turn by his political opponents to block his administration and make it a failure but so far have not succeeded.

He went to the scene of the 53-year old building which turned the unfortunates out and gave every possible assistance in the power of a chief executive. He estimates the loss to the state very heavy.

The people of Indiana can depend upon it that when Governor Schricker has a job that belongs to the Chief Executive it will be attended to right as long as Henry F. Schricker is that person. No wonder his friends are proud of him.

Farmers Slapped

Repubicans in the Indiana House of Representatives this week handed Indiana farmers "the biggest slap in the face given by any group of assemblymen in a long time," when the bill to continue the state milk-control law two more years was killed. The action was so described by Hassil E.

Schenck, president of the Indiana Farm Bureau, Inc. The measure was originally passed under a Democratic administration at the request of the Farm Bureau and other farm groups of the state. "Defeat of the bill is a keen disappointment to the farmers of Indiana," Schenck said. "The producers wanted it and the consumers wanted it." He explained that although the federal government, through the Office of Price Administration, will control the milk industry for the duration of the war, the OPA has shown a willingness to recognize local control. Protesting the legislature's action delegates attending the annual conference of the social and educational department of the Farm Bureau adopted a resolution asking that the measure again be brought before the assembly for "free and open discussion and for a roll call vote."

The resolution set out that killing the bill leaves milk producers "again at the mercy of the large milk distributors, as was the case before the institution of the measure." The present milk control act expires June 30, and the proposed measure would have extended the program for two years.

WHEN you have this soufflé mixed and safely into the oven, just lay down the law to your family.
"All hands washed right on the dot," you tell them. "No stragglers or dilly-dalliers permitted for this meal." For when a soufflé comes out of the oven proudly high and light it waits for no one. It must be eaten right then. A few minutes delay and down it sags.

But it's worth being prompt for a souffié like this one. It has a tangy cheese flavor to which has been added the zest of tomato. And it comes out of the oven puffed high under a crusty brown top. Serve with it a fresh green salad. Follow it with fruit. A lovely meal!
